Trump backtracks on cyber security unit plan with Russia

ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON, July 10

US PRESIDENT DONALD Trump appears to be backing away from the idea of working with Russia to create a "cyber security unit" to guard against election hacking.

Trump tweeted on Sunday morning about discussing such a unit with Russian President Vladimir Putin. Yet in a tweet on Tuesday, he said he would not discuss such a unit with Putin until he had met with the Russian president in person.

White press secretary Sean Spicer said that Trump's tweet on Tuesday was "a clarification" of his earlier tweet. He said that Trump had not intended to discuss such a unit with Putin until he had met with the Russian president in person.

Former defense secretary Ash Carter equated the move to "like the guy who robbed your house proposing a working group on burglary."

credible partner in any cybersecurity initiative "would be dangerously naive."

By Sunday evening, Trump was tweeting a different tune. He wrote that just because he and Putin discussed the idea "doesn't mean I think it can happen. It can't."

Another Senate Republican, Marco Rubio of Florida, said on Twitter that "partnering with Putin on a 'Cyber Security Unit' is akin to partnering with Assad on a 'Chemical Weapons Unit'." Rubio was referring to Syrian President Bashar Assad and his regime's use of chemical weapons against its own citizens.

Former defense secretary Ash Carter equated the move to "like the guy who robbed your house proposing a working group on burglary."

And Rep Adam Schiff, D-Calif., the top Democrat on the House intelligence committee, said that a credible partner in any cybersecurity initiative "would be dangerously naive for this country."

"If that's our best election defence, we might as well just mail our ballot boxes to Moscow," he said. UN ambassador Nikki Haley, however, defended the move, arguing that working with Russia on cybersecurity "doesn't mean we've lost trust Russia. But you keep those that you don't trust closer so that you can always keep an eye on them and keep them in check."

The president also mentioned that his 2016 opponent, Hillary Clinton, and her daughter would have been treated differently if they'd done what he did.

Team India coach appointment put on hold

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA Mumbai, July 10

SUSPENSE CONTINUED OVER India's next coach with the Cricket Advisory Committee (CAC) today deciding to put the appointment on hold while sending a pointed message to skipper Virat Kohli to understand the nuances associated with professional coaching.

Speaking on behalf of the three-member CAC, former captain Sourav Ganguly made it clear that the panel was in a hurry and made it clear that Kohli will need to understand the nuances associated with professional coaching.

"Virat will need to understand how coaches operate. At the same time, you have to give credit to what he has stayed out of the coaching process. We will have a detailed chat with him once he is back from the West Indies," Ganguly, flanked by committee member VVS Laxman and joint secretary Amitabh Chaudhary, told media persons here.

Ganguly's message was an indication that the CAC has taken a grave note of the situation after the infamous Kohli-Anil Kumble fallout leading to the latter's departure.

Five candidates - namely Ravi Shastri, Virender Sehwag, Tom Moody, Richard Pybus and Lalchand Rajput were interviewed with Sehwag being the only one physically present at the BCCI headquarters.

Ganguly and Laxman were joined by Sachin Tendulkar via Skype and the former skipper said that the process is money for nothing for the top job as it was the popular perception.

Ganguly informed that West Indian Phil Simmons did not make himself available for the interview. However, the decision to withhold the appointment is a clear indication that Virat Kohli is no longer a money favourite for the top job as it was the popular perception.

Sehwag's intervention on for two hours. "You will get to know soon," Sehwag told reporters while leaving Cricket Centre.

"We will hold on to the announcements as we need a few more days. We feel there is no hurry, the Sri Lanka tour is coming in a few days' time," Ganguly said.

Ganguly made it clear that he and his colleagues are looking at the bigger picture for the next two years and will take a decision in the best interest of Indian cricket. Asked about the inputs taken from Kohli in the meetings during the ICC Champions Trophy in England, Ganguly said, "That was on a different aspect. As I said, he has stayed out of the whole thing."

"We want to make sure we take the best possible decision for Indian cricket. The coach, captain and players are the ones who will take Indian cricket forward. The CAC goes out of the picture once the coach is selected."

Retaining the policy of the BCCI, Ganguly stated that the appointment will be made keeping in mind the 2019 World Cup. "Once we make this announcement, it has to be till the World Cup (2019)," Ganguly said. Ganguly said that the presentations given by coaches on their roadmap for Indian cricket were no different from what they saw last year.

"From what we have heard from the coaches, it is not different from last year. We will take a call in the due course of time. We are not in a hurry. Sri Lanka is a long tour. We want to make sure that everybody is in synchronisation. It's not my Sachin, Amitabhji (Chaudhary) or Rahul (Joshi), who will play. It is the players who will be playing and the support staff will be there. Everybody should be in synchronisation," Ganguly said in a matter-of-fact manner.
